In The Eyes Of Nature

No, we have never been here And we will never be gone I saw your voice rise up And cut into the heart of the sun

I kissed the lips of a girl She took her first breath when this world was young I felt the cold of the air As it burned my empty lungs

And we have never been born and we will be consumed And unreality is buried here beneath the truth And though we've never been here, we will never be contained And unreality is naked here beneath the moon

So we'll go down to the ocean And wash our memory clean We'll see the world for the first time Through an unburied eye

And though the world will stay the same And we're certain to die We'll raise our hands up to Heaven And sacrifice our limitations

And the pain and frustration Are equal to the bliss of release And in the eyes of nature We will live for an eternity

And when we die, we'll disappear Into the eyes of nature And we are here just for a little while And then our body disappears

Into the eyes of nature Into the arms of God Into the mouth of indifference Into the eyes of nature

And we are nothing but experience In the eyes of nature And we will live forever In the eyes of nature
