

Silhouettes

Swimming with Dolphins

I know you won't admit this
I am just a silhouette to you
You found comfort with my distance
But you never let me stray out of your view

Who really needs the past
With the allure of something new
So we split apart at last
Went back to places that I knew
Before you

And you'll never have to see
The light that wraps itself around me
And I'll never have to know
The faces and
The places you go
(That you go (4x))

When I can't bear the resistance
I bend in shapes in ways I never knew
So I'll try to postpone my existence
Yeah I'll stop or start my heart if you ask me to I'll stop my heart and then I'll wait for you

I was sure I never would be sure we were in love
(Although it's dark and black)
I am sure I never would be sure of love to come
(There is one thing left to hold on to)
After you

And you'll never have to see
The light that wraps itself around me
And I'll never have to know
The faces and
The places you go
(That you go (4x))
