

Slowly

Syleena Johnson

When he first walked thru the door i had this feeling that i never felt before, he was the finest thing i ever seen. he had me trembling just cause he smiled at me, then he kissed me softly on my cheek, said to me "you smell good enough to eat" girl i swear my heart must have skipped a beat. he's got me feelin' like i did when i was seventeen (and i couldnt wait) for him to put his hands all over me.

so i let him know that i was ready for him to make love to me, but slowly, then slowly he undressed me, then slowly he laid me down, he pulled my panties down, then slowly he went down on me, then slowly we made love.

it's been an hour since his love had been in me couldn't believe he felt this good inside of me, it was everything i dreamed that it would be and like a virgin i was tight, but he loosened me. then slowly he began to speak "it's so good baby" is what he said to me. girl i'm telling you that this man is the truth, put it on me like a real man is supposed to. (and i couldn't wait) to feel him come inside of me, (but he wasn't selfish, he was patient, all night he made love to me, but slowly.)

(we made love, we made love) to the steady rhythm of our heartbeats (we made love) till the tears came down my face (we made love) till the rain, sunshine and the fall leaves turn to snow. he took my body through the four seasons (we made love) till our spirits locked and wouldn't let go (we made love) till our bodies couldn't cum no more (we made love) till the moon became the sunlights glow he filled my cup till it overflowed. (we made love)
