

Arms of Love

T'Pau

Tell me now do we bear the sins of each other Love what are we hoping for Here we stand, closing a painful door And I never knew, people could hurt for so Now they're looking for a way out And there's nowhere left to go Is there anybody up there listening You better come on down and lend a hand If we all get to live with the sins of each other Then here we stand We'll find where you lie Then we will take you home And you won't be alone Back where you started from As near as we can come You'll rest again In the arms of love Now when you are broken in two Can we try to make it up to you Is there anybody up there listening You better come on down and tell us why And if we all bear the cross of the world that we live in Then we will try To find where you lie Then we'll take you home And you won't be alone Back where you started from As near as we can come You'll rest again In the arms of love We'll find where you lie Then we'll take you home And you won't be alone Back where you started from As near as we can come You'll rest and then We'll find where you lie Then we'll take you home And you won't be alone Back where you started from As near as we can come You'll rest again Ooh in the arms of love
