

Little Miss One More Please

Taj Jackson

Little miss one more please
Asking me to sing her off to sleep
One more lullaby is all she need
Pleading for one last song from me
But even if I sing two more then she wants three
And even if I start to sing so softly
Little miss one more please
Asking me to sing her off to sleep

Drift away, fall asleep, close your eyes you'll be safe with me
The song I sing will never end
Cause baby I'll repeat it over and over again
I will be there til you wake up again
Your protector, your defender
I will be there til you wake up again
In my arms, your defender
I will be there til you wake up again
Little miss one more please, your protector
I will be there til you wake up again
Little miss one more please, your defender

Little miss one more please
Asking me to sing her off to sleep
One more lullaby is all she need
Pleading for one last song from me

T.v turned on but the sound's switched off
She leaves it playing in the room [?]
(wondering) is there anybody out there (listening to me)
Is there anybody out there
Singing one more melody (melody)
Go there one last time
Take away your pain for a little while
So close your eyes, go to sleep
(listen to my song on the radio)
Baby you'll count sheep

I will be there til you wake up again
Your protector, your defender
I will be there til you wake up again
In my arms, your defender
I will be there til you wake up again
Little miss one more please, your protector
I will be there til you wake up again
Little miss one more please, your defender

Little miss one more please
Asking me to sing her off to sleep
One more lullaby is all she need
Pleading for one last song from me
But even if I sing two more then she wants three
And even if I start to sing so softly
Little miss one more please
Asking me to sing her off to sleep
