Affirmation

It's just a fraction of time, Until we move in reverse, Can feel the pressure and all the minds, And the whole Universe. It is a question of force, And of a physical law, We've had this battle a thousand times, Never been here before, Never been here before.

Haven't got the strength to fight anymore, Got no desire to die anymore, I need an affirmation I want to see you again, again, again... Haven't got the strength to fight anymore, Don't even know what I'm fighting you for I need an affirmation I need an affirmation

We're at the end of the line At the start of the race I want to swim where the water falls Off the edge of your face I'm reaching out for the light Past the silhouette of you In the cold reflection of time Is a point of view, is a point of view Can you see me like I see you? Can you see me like I see you?

Haven't got the strength to fight anymore, Got no desire to die anymore, I need an affirmation I want to see you again, again, again... Haven't got the strength to fight anymore, Don't even know what I'm fighting you for I need an affirmation I need an affirmation

I wanna fill you with love I wanna see you survive Just take a second to know yourself For the rest of your life We're just a minute away From the place where we wanna be We're not really falling apart We're just incomplete We're just incomplete We're just incomplete We're just incomplete We're just incomplete

I need an affirmation [7x]I want to see you again, again, again...