

It's Not Fair

Tamia

You don't think I have a clue
But I know where you are tonight
Cause she's the one you dream about
When you kiss me goodnight

I bet you hold her close
And gaze into her hazel eyes
And then you slowly give to her
The love that should be mine (mine)

It's not fair, it's so wrong
You're not here
When all I did
Was give you my all
When mine breaks, her heart you hold
I guess my love wasn't enough
To keep you home

I bet she's beautiful
The sweetest thing you've ever seen
She's probably got the figure of
One of those girls in magazines
She probably gives you butterflies
Every time you say her name
I bet you never think, think about
The life with me you made, that you made

It's not fair, it's so wrong
You're not here
When all I did
Was give you my all
While mine breaks, her heart you hold
I guess my love wasn't enough
To keep you home

So here I am
With my face in my hands
I don't understand
Why I deserve
The kind of hurt
You give to me
You give to me

It's not fair, it's so wrong
You're not here
When all I did
Was give you my all
My heart breaks, while her's you hold
I guess my love wasn't enough
To keep you home
