

When A Woman

Tamia

He met her in his home town a couple of years ago
She was beautiful inside and out
How could he just let her go
He had girls on the side and he tried to hide
But somehow she knew
Still she stayed
She stayed
but she would always cry every night
But then he noticed a change
She no longer had tears on her face when a woman stops cryin
You best believe
She has a new plan
She preparing for somethin new something that doesn't include you
When a woman cease to cry
She's already to say goodbye
Goodbye
when you stay out late
She don't call to ask where you are (where you at?)
She just gives you this look when you come home that says
You betta watch yo back
Fellas listen to yo girl when she tells you
That she's all cried out
You'd better pray
That she's stay if she no longer crys every night
If she doesn't comlain any more
She's making her way to that front door
when a woman stops cryin
You best believe
She has a new plan
She preparing for somethin new something that doesn't include you
When a woman cease to cry
She's already to say just as long as she is arguin
Fussin & complainin
As long as she will cry sometimes
Everything is all right
Oh but as soon as she is quiet
When you mess up she's silent
And has this certain smile upon her face
when a woman stops cryin
You best believe
She has a new plan

When a woman stops cryin
When a woman stops cryin over you
