

Zodiac Man

Tankard

Some call me tight lipped
Taciturn guy
Some maybe call me weirdo
Absent most of the time

Now here's my story
The awful truth
I am no silent dreamer
And surely not confused

It all started in my childhood many years ago
Gazing at the night sky through my brand new telescope
Suddenly I saw a secret glowing in the stars
No one did believe me, parents, friends, astronomers

But the stellar constellation
Charged my brain with cosmic rays
I was like a huge receiver
For the lights from deeper space

I am the Zodiac Man
There are things beyond the planet rings you won't believe
When I use my powers there's an eclipse of the sun
I'm the Zodiac Man

Soon I felt my supernatural abilities
Reading thoughts and sensing all the human energies
Shifting weather, earthquakes by the powers of my mind
Even spin the moon depending on celestial signs

Observation of the heaven
Everything's at my control
Guiding asteroids, solar winds and
Distant galaxy black holes

I am the Zodiac Man
There are things beyond the planet rings you won't believe
When I use my powers there's an eclipse of the sun
I'm the Zodiac Man

Chosen one! Am I good or bad?
Chosen one! This burden makes me mad
Chosen one! Earth, I have to leave
Chosen one! The stars are my relief
Some call me tight lipped
Taciturn guy

Some maybe call me weirdo
Absent most of the time

Now here's my story
The awful truth
I am no silent dreamer
And surely not confused

I am the Zodiac Man
There are things beyond the planet rings you won't believe

When I use my powers there's an eclipse of the sun
I'm the Zodiac Man
I am the Zodiac Man
There are things beyond the planet rings you won't believe
I am the Zodiac Man
