

I Don't Care

Tantric

Who knows which one of us will stay
I think it's time
For making it real again
I know it's hard to say goodbye
But if we try
We might get the feel again

Who knows which one of us will stay
And either way
These things we don't comprehend
To put our differences apart
Then we can start
By making amends again

How can I live in the past now
I'm trying to think the future
We always live in the past now
We should be living the future

I don't really care about it
Nothing stays the same
I don't really care about it
Nothing seems to change

I know which one of us will leave
Hard to conceive
That we'd ever fall again
And in the end
I know we'll see
That you and me will finally breathe again

How can I live in the past now
I'm trying to think the future
We always live in the past now
We should be living the future

Who are you
To take all the pain away
Sometimes I
Feel like I wanna do
If I were you
I'd be trying to change myself