Fractured (Everything I Said Was True)

Taproot

Your story only tells one side, it's based on fact, but filled with lies

(you'd be rich if each was worth a dime)

I played my part and that's defined, you played the field on bo rrowed time

(and I know that fault was all but mine)

I chose to let you in, you chose to pull away

I jumped right out of my skin, when I heard you say

"Everything I said was true, everything except that I love you" If it's not me, then who? I think I deserve to know, now we're through and through

No glory resides inside my mind, at least I never crossed the l

(cause I don't need the distraction)

But an angel appeared on your devil's side, nowhere to run nowh ere to hide

(I'm just a nickel with traction)

So should we say goodnight, and give it one more try? This isn't worth the fight, so let's just say goodbye everything I said was true, everything except I loves you too and if it's not me, it's you! I thought you deserved to know now we're through and through

Sad to see forethought after me cause, that's not fair put yourself in my shoes and become the fractured one cause I no longer care!

Everything I said was true, everything except that I love you and if it's not me, fuck you! I thought you deserved to know n ow I'm through with you!