

Violent Seas

Taproot

Standing on a land unknown interpreting the same
Believing in a chance of hope and see it slowly fade
It's breaking far away replacing what I'm made of

Looking for a way to show that I'm searching for a faith
Who knows that I'm screaming for a place to go,
'cause I'm drowning in the violent seas of being force fed societies
Shallow end of misery
Please take me away 'cause I can't stay looking for a way
To show that I'm okay
Screaming for a place like home

Treading in the fears I own of ending up ashamed
While cornered in this life and prone
By overbearing waves
That steal what I have saved replacing what I gave up

Away, far away
