You're Not Home Tonight

Taproot

You were everything i'd need
You were the only air i'd breathe
You were the method to my madness'
The fact I chose to let you go
Rips me from head down to my toes
Especially knowing you're the one for me

I didn't mean the things I said
If I could take them back again I would
But you're not home tonight
I didn't mean to break your heart
If I could fix it even start I would
But you're not home tonight

You weren't the first to hold my key
But you were the one who set me free
You were the answer to my problems
And I solved them
In the wake everyday I now wander
In this place where
You're no longer there
Is it fate my mistakes will remain being all I have
Don't say that it's over

What have I done,
What have I done again

I didn't mean the things I said
If I could take them back again I would
And tell you, you were right
