Quincy J. told me, superstars are good providers But two times out of ten when we're on tour family's not beside us What can a nigga do when he makes ends Add more to the time they spend While he make ends, everything else breaking And the bond at the house may end And your wifey steady yellin' 'bout quality time And you think, with all the fame and fortune shit oughta be fine But what happens when the divorce papers just gotta be signed And you lose half and your children cause you gotta be N9ne I wanna relax with them and spend time to the maximum But if silence is golden, then me making noise is platinum I gotta be Tech and daddy and hubby But music, women mixed with family's ug-aly I know and you know that hella be Hot for a nigga's infidelity, but until then (What) God, forgive me for any promises that I broke Family, can I be forgiven for all the liquor and weed that I smoke? When I succeed, will I cope Will I still breathe without both This ring (Tech N9ne) I don't know but when I go I'm leaving out dope
