

Accidental Life

Teenage Fanclub

Give in to me now I want you I know the past comes back to haunt you there are satellites in heaven watching everything you do

This is a battle that you're losing and life was never more confusing now you're looking for a way out of your accidental life

But now your life is on the line you can stay inside but you're out of time

You can't reason in your condition and now you see life as a mission maybe I know what your missing tell me what you're going through

All your problems are distractions still waiting for the main attraction and you're looking for a way out of your accidental life