Amanda's Dream

Can you say good-bye, without ever leavin'? That's some sad soul to keep Amanda awakes in a moment believin' She's better off stayin' asleep So she drives by the station Imaginin' somewhere, sings a slow, slow, song

Now, she's waitin' at the stoplights With no where to go But in our town there's just one stoplight Oh, I wish she would know

There's a world outside her window Anywhere the wind blows Anywhere's Amanda's dream

She sits late at night by the light of a candle With wishes that never come true And her hope gets so high they're too hard to handle She stares as they fade out of view And of these some words have led her to nowhere Except a slow, slow, song

Well she sleeps like a girl But she wakes like a woman She sleeps like a girl But she wakes like a woman, like a woman

Waitin' at the stoplights With nowhere to go But in our town there's just one stoplight I wish she would know
