

Lines on your Face

Ten Sharp

Lines on your face like a wonder of age and I
See your skin turn pale I can see your hair turn grey
Being old and wise and grey is such a vivid colour
Who doesn't need the time to go and find the answers

But was is really like buying icecream on a sunny day
Why is it really so, one day there'll be no tomorrow
You always left some space go make my own mistakes
But you were always there to wipe the tears away
You often knew a way to smile and make my day
You made me see it through, there will be one more day
One day tomorrow

Lines on your face
They tell the story of your life
On your face
Lines on your face
They tell the story of your life
On your face

Lines on your face, every line a story
Who doesn't need the time to go and find the answers
You always knew a way to smile and make my day
You made me see it through, there'll be one more day
One day tomorrow, lines on your face
They tell the story of your life
On your face

Lines on your face
They tell the story of your life
On your face
Lines on your face
They tell the story of your life
On your face
Lines on your face
They tell the story of your life
