

Think About the Times

Ten Years After

Think about the times when you're happy
Think about the times when you're sad
Think about the life you're living
Think about your life and be glad
You are living
You are in the world
And your life belongs to you
You are living
You are of the earth
And the earth is of you, too
There'll be times when you're lonely
There'll be times when you're down
There are times when you remember
With a smile or a frown
You are living
You are in the world
And your life belongs to you
You are living
You are of the earth
And the earth is of you, too