

Stormwarning

Ten

The setting sunlight hides away
The skyline burns on this "End Of Days"
In the darkness, closing in like a bird of prey
Seven waits

Battle drums cannot erase
The beating hearts in the hurricane
As her colours flow, condense and precipitate
Love is slain

Born to this unholy light
Shadows enchant and unfurl in her eyes
The lowly night has begun
You should run

(Ooh) Stormwarning
Clawing out in the rain
With desire and lust infused
Each has the other to blame
(No no no)
(Ooh) Stormwarning
Thunder clouds of distain
Blood the skies in which they brood
Above the human remains

The Lightning strikes expectorate
Electric blue as they penetrate,
In a landscape purged of love we prepare to taste
Death's embrace

The devil moons that shied away
Refuse to shine and recalibrate,
With a tragic kiss, dismissed by the war we wage
In disgrace

Born to this unholy light
Shadows enchant and unfurl in her eyes
The lowly night has begun
You should run

(Ooh) Stormwarning
Clawing out in the rain
With desire and lust infused
Each has the other to blame
(No no no)
(Ooh) Stormwarning
Thunder clouds of distain
Blood the skies in which they brood
Above the human remains