

You'll be the first flight out of Dallas
You leave but never get away
From the color you swear that your life takes in this town
Because scenery is just a shade

You live in regret
It hurts to know how much you'll miss

I want to make it feel alright
Hold you through the dark tonight

So what if now is all you have
Live as if you never knew
What it was to lose
Honestly have you ever been honest with yourself
Or are you someone else's point of view

You live in regret
It hurts to know how much you'll miss
It's what you expect
That leaves you such a mess

One day you'll learn
No place will make you happier

Are you someone else's point of view
Are you someone else's point of view
