

Flowers In Snow

Terri Clark

How many heartaches
Until the bough breaks
Only so much I can bend
So tired of crying
Hell bent on trying
Over and over again

Another season fading
Nothing new to show
We squander our love
And still wonder why it won't grow
We're planting flowers in snow

The ground is still frozen
North wind keeps blowing
Praying for gray to turn blue
Winter seems longer
Hurt's even stronger
The farther we drift from the truth

Another season fading
Nothing new to show
We squander our love
And still wonder why it won't grow
We're planting flowers in snow

You can't be someone you're not
Something I wished and forgot
No chance of changing
Doing the same thing
Here goes another last shot

Another season fading
Nothing new to show
We squander our love
And still wonder why it won't grow
We're planting flowers in snow

We're planting flowers in snow
