

New Day Dawning

The Adverts

We say don't show your guns
If you don't intend to fight
We say don't sleep all day
If you can't keep awake at night
Don't screw it up
Don't be a hero
'Cause we don't need them
Be a panther or a poet
Someone to light the beacon

And I wonder
Is a new day dawning?
And I wonder, is it around the corner?
I wonder, are the fighting men
still fighting men?
Do they go on and on and on?

Prepare to lose
Prepare to harden to distress
This ain't your system
You're just second-generation business
So don't screw it up
Don't be a hero
'Cause we don't need them
No political immunity
To save your position

And I wonder, is a new day dawning?
And I wonder, is it around the corner?
I wonder, are the fighting men
still fighting men?
Do they go on and on and on?

You can't relax
Just 'cause you're socially secure
If you've forgot what you're fighting for
We could effect a cause
So don't screw it up
Don't be a hero
'Cause we don't need them
Frustration is the speed of the people
And they let it lead them
