

Mime Abduction

The Arrogant Worms

I woke up this morning, I fell out of bed checked my pulse I wasn't dead there's a pounding in my head I think I may have vomited

They took me away last night looks like I put up a fight now I'm staring at the lights why is my skin so white?

I was abducted by a gang of angry mimes what they did should be a crime I couldn't see the probe but I felt it enough but at least they wore gloves

They put me in a box that wasn't there made me pretend to climb the stairs they were all sitting I couldn't see their chairs and the clothes they made me wear

A little striped shirt, a little black beret a dopey flower made of papier mache and they painted a tear drop on my face gave me an accordion to play

I was abducted and then tortured and forced to jam cajun music by a gang of angry mimes
what they did should be a crime they didn't say much, they weren't chatty they poured imaginary tea

I pulled off my escape during the tug of war I poured mime marbles over the mime floor seven mimes went down and then I punched two more then I made myself a door

I was abducted and then tortured and forced to jam Cajun music and then after a brief altercation escaped from a gang of angry mimes
what they did should be a crime it took a while to get home again because I ran against the wind
