One Amongst The Wheat Fields

The Atlas Moth

You breathed through silk again You lack teeth that match your weakened lungs A palace melting down to tar Leaving moments of days That past me by

Lights out

I've abandoned hope I've been left amongst the wheat fields

This fairy tale ends one chapter short In a blaze of reproach Without a grand finale

Lights out on us