

Would You Change Your Life

The Blue Van

They say the devil is among us He's looking for a friend So buy yourself forgiveness If your heart is full of sin

And our universe is ending The sun is gonna die But darkness is already Walking by your side

You don't need no religion For you to comprehend There are rules to live by From start until the end

Temptation gives you what you want Not what you need The ruin of all mankind Is power and it's greed

So if we only have tonight If this the last moment Would you change your life?

If the time was yours to hold Would you be young forever Or wise and old?

Everyone's a preacher Everyone's a king But if you suck like leeches Be careful what it brings

This is for the sinner This is for the saint You're pawns of different colour But playing the same game

You're looking for redemption But if you search your heart You'll see that no redeeming Can't set you soul apart

From this body that is The only thing you own This is where the riches Rest in every bone

So if we only have tonight If this the last moment Would you change your life

If the time was yours to hold Would you be young forever Or wise and old

You say the devil is among us He's looking for a lamb The devil's just a drawing Made by evil hands

'Cause the universe is endless The sun will give you light Take away the darkness Make a way for life
