

Wake Up Boo!

The Boo Radleys

Summer's gone, day's spent with the grass and sun,
I don't mind, to pretend i do seems really dumb.
I rise as the morning comes, crawling through the blinds,
I shouldn't be up at this time, but i can't sleep with you there by my side.

Wake up its a beautiful morning,
The sun shining for your eyes.
Wake up its so beautiful,
For what could be the very last time.

Twenty five, don't recall a time i felt this alive,
So wake up boo, there's so many thing's for us to do.
Its early so take your time, don't let me rush you please,
I know i was up all night, i can do anything, anything, anything

Wake up its a beautiful morning,
The sun shining for your eyes.
Wake up its so beautiful,
For what could be the very last time.

Wake up (8x)

But you can't blame me now for the death of someone,
But you can't blame me now for the death of someone.
But you've gonna say, what you want to say,
You have to put the death in everything.

Wake up its a beautiful morning,
The sun shining for your eyes.
Wake up its so beautiful,
For what could be the very last time.

Wake up its a beautiful morning,
The sun shining for your eyes.
Wake up its so beautiful,
For what could be the very last time.

Ahhhh
