

Always

The Boxer Rebellion

You never worried too much when we both were young
You'd cover up your heartache, cover up alone
The more I saw indifference, I knew you'd lost your nerve
The more your best intentions were just left unheard

Let it out

Always remember me
When you are lost
When you're in need
Always remember us
If you've missed the mark
Even if you fall apart

Never the interference that we run with now
When you see the daylight that will soon go out
We only seemed talk of being misunderstood
When nothing else would matter, when what we knew was good