

I Keep Myself To Myself

The Boy Least Likely To

I keep myself to myself and no one else Knows how it feels to be me and I'm all by myself I've got a tick and a twitch for everything
The world is made up of boxes that I don't fit in

Sometimes when I look up at the stars I feel so alone because I know that no one can ever See the world the same way that I do

I am afraid of falling in love so I keep myself to myself
I want a cookie and I need a hug but I keep myself to myself

I keep myself to myself
and when I'm sad I comfort myself with thinking that no one understands

Sometimes I dig through the shells at a low tide I wonder if anything fragile could ever survive in this world without getting broken

I am afraid of things that can hurt so I keep myself to myself I feel completely alone in the world and I keep myself to myself, to myself

And so wherever I go I wear my heart uncomfortably on my sleeve

I put my elbows up over my ears and I keep myself to myself I close my eyes and the world disappears
and I keep myself to myself

I'll never be lonely when I am alone
and I keep myself to myself I live in a little world of my own
and I keep myself to myself, to myself

I keep myself to myself
I keep myself to myself, to myself