You're never gonna walk away from this Nothings gonna save your life But you're waiting for the real apocalypse But you couldn't see the light

You find something to keep you satisfied But not for as long as you'd like So you find a vice to buy you some time But you couldn't afford the price

Now you're in the same situation That you were before you came When it's all said and done Will you still feel the same?

Red alert
Run and hide, you're under attack
We're in a state of alert
Red alert
You've made your bed now there's no turning back
We're in a state of
You're living a lie, prepare to die
Times turning out, it goes
Tick, tick, tick, tick gone

Now you've backed yourself into a corner Now you got no place to go You thought that you found a new world order But disorders all you know

You've got plans for a revolution But it's harder done than said When you find out that its just an illusion You'd be better off dead

Now you're in the same situation That you were before you came When it's all said and done Will you still feel the same?

Red alert
Run and hide, you're under attack
We're in a state of alert
Red alert
You've made your bed now there's no turning back
We're in a state of
You're living a lie, prepare to die
Times turning out, it goes
Tick, tick, tick, tick gone

Making allegations, complicating situations You thought you made a name for yourself But you're to blind to see That you didn't change anything at all

Hide your head from the bed you made yourself

Red alert
Run and hide, you're under attack
We're in a state of alert
Red alert
You've made your bed now there's no turning back
We're in a state of
You're living a lie, prepare to die
Times turning out, it goes
Tick, tick, tick, tick gone

Bleeding heart, a dying soul Staged as revolution But your mind don't change You still feel the same Another false solution