

Litigation

The Bronx

Darling, I woke up in your warehouse this morning
Starving, of all the days to fight
I swear I got it rough through the night

I tried to explain
This lifetime you laid down before me
Despite all the letters I send
You still choose to ignore me

Forming a stolen glimpse of love
A brand new rope to tie up your time
Warning, you're impossible to break
I fear every step that we take

I tried to explain
This lifetime you laid down before me
Despite all the letters I send
You still exist to pretend
I have gone off the deep end

Forgive me

Darling, I hope the world's become
My mind and my fingers are numb

I tried to explain
This lifetime you laid down before me
Despite all the letters I send
You still choose to ignore me
I tried to explain
This lifetime you laid down before me
Despite all the help I extend
Despite all the signals I send
You still exist to pretend
I have gone off the deep end

Darling forgive me
Forgive me

Darling forgive me
Darling forgive me
Darling forgive me