

These Two Boots Of Mine

The Bruisers

These two boots of mine have brought me a long way
Through rain and sunshine, Through badlands and better days
Well I've seen a thousand faces, and I'll see a thousand more
This life is a long journey- And it's not over that's for sure

So just remember when you're lying
With your back against the floor
And someone yells surrender
But you want to fight more
Just remember that feeling
Gonna keep you alive
Get you over hurdles and through struggles in your life
So life throws you a curve and you don't know if you'll survive
You withdraw from yourself; your luck has taken a dive
You think to yourself, Could this really be the end
You try to find your faith, But it's gone like a lost friend
So just remember when you're lying
With your back against the floor
And someone yells surrender
But you want to fight more
Just remember that feeling
Gonna keep you alive
Get you over hurdles and through struggles in your life
