

Lakeside

The Cassandra Complex

I'm lying here, in the dark, in the cold
Down by the lakeside
And I'm thinking about you, I'm thinking of you
How I wish you were here, I wish you were here
Why did you leave me, why did you leave me?
And I fall back, and I see the start
They're so close I could touch them
But I can't touch you, I can't touch you
As the water closes in, I feel like I'm wrapped in your arms
Your cold wet arms, your cold wet arms
And the wind blows
The water speak, beckons me closer
Rich dark deeps, lonely sky
Lonely skies
But I'm safe in your arms, I'm safe in your arms
Your cold wet arms
I wish you were here, I wish you were here,
To see me die, to die with me
So I'll kiss you one more time, like I kiss the waves
As they close themselves around me
And I sink into the night
And the blood blossoms in my eyes
And my only thoughts are of you
And I kiss you
Kiss you
Kiss you
Kiss you