

Phoenix

The Cassandra Complex

I have become, comfortably brilliant comfortably brilliant
I have transcended the reptilian
I hardly can control myself, I hardly can control myself
I am more than human now, I am more than God allows

Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, something wild and rare
Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, Phoenix

Look at me, look at me
Tell me now what you see
A man among men, or something else
Something gone beyond, something gone beyond

Something new, something ideal
Something precious, something half-concealed
Something not quite right, that sets your mind alight

Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, something wild and rare
Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, Phoenix

Don't get me wrong
I love you for your beauty, I love your helplessness
Don't get me wrong
I love the way you worship me
Don't get me wrong
We will survive

Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, something wild and rare
Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, Phoenix

I don't know if it's in my genes
From where it comes or what it means
I only know without your help
I hardly can control myself

The world of mind is ours forever
We've made a link that can't be severed
In a world that values treachery, our honesty is plain to see

Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, something wild and rare
Phoenix in the wetware
Phoenix, Phoenix