The Chariot

I found the answer... open your hands. Reach out, distance enough, and fair maiden in hand, All in all, we ain't... But, we press on!

I'm sorry, but I don't want to be an emperor. That's not my bus iness. I don't want to rule or conquer anyone. I should like to help everyone if possible; Jew, Gentile, black man, white. We all want to help one another. Human beings are like that. We wa nt to live by each others happiness, not by each others misery.

We don't want to hate and despise one another. In this world t here is room for everyone, and the good earth is rich and can p rovide for everyone. The way of life can be free and beautiful, but we have lost the way. Greed has poisoned men's souls, has barricaded the world with hate, has goose-stepped us into miser y and bloodshed. We have developed speed, but we have shut ours elves in. Machinery that gives abundance has left us in want. O ur knowledge has made us cynical; our cleverness, hard and unki nd. We think too much and feel too little. More than machinery, we need humanity. More than cleverness, we need kindness and g entleness. Without these qualities, life will be violent and al l will be lost. The airplane and the radio have brought us clos er together. The very nature of these inventions cries out for the goodness in men; cries out for universal brotherhood; for t he unity of us all. Even now my voice is reaching millions thro ughout the world, millions of despairing men, women, and little children, victims of a system that makes men torture and impri son innocent people. To those who can hear me, I say, do not de spair. The misery that is now upon us is but the passing of gre ed, the bitterness of men who fear the way of human progress. T he hate of men will pass, and dictators die, and the power they took from the people will return to the people. And so long as men die, liberty will never perish. Soldiers! Don't give yours elves to brutes, men who despise you, enslave you; who regiment your lives, tell you what to do, what to think and what to fee 1! Who drill you, diet you, treat you like cattle, use you as c annon fodder. Don't give yourselves to these unnatural men - ma chine men with machine minds and machine hearts! You are not ma chines, you are not cattle, you are men! You have the love of h umanity in your hearts! You don't hate! Only the unloved hate; the unloved and the unnatural. Soldiers! Don't fight for slaver y! Fight for liberty! In the seventeenth chapter of St. Luke, i t is written that the kingdom of God is within man, not one man nor a group of men, but in all men! In you! You, the people, h ave the power, the power to create machines, the power to creat e happiness! You, the people, have the power to make this life free and beautiful, to make this life a wonderful adventure. Th en in the name of democracy, let us use that power. Let us all unite. Let us fight for a new world, a decent world that will g ive men a chance to work, that will give youth a future and old age a security. By the promise of these things, brutes have ri sen to power. But they lie! They do not fulfill that promise. T hey never will! Dictators free themselves but they enslave the people. Now let us fight to fulfill that promise. Let us fight to free the world! To do away with national barriers! To do awa y with greed, with hate and intolerance! Let us fight for a wor ld of reason, a world where science and progress will lead to a ll men's happiness. Soldiers, in the name of democracy, let us all unite!

Don't set the sun or let hearts grow dim. Return back to the hi ll that you left, with the city in your hands and if nothings l eft, well, the forest marches on. Forget not who you are. Child ren of the sun. My point is, salt is on the ground, the cast are on their way, and the audience is set. Now that we have painted faith, shout, 'Victory is ours!'

[monologue by Charlie Chaplin from The Great Dictator]
