

Tears Don't Fall

The Choir

He feigns a heart of passion
And stains to emphathize
He prays for hungry children
But tears don't fill his eyes
He hears men scream in darkness
And fears for their demise
He calls on God to save them
But tears don't fill his eyes

Tears don't fall, they don't fall down

He wants to be a soldier
But not enough to die

He loves the Man of Sorrows
But not enough to cry

Tears don't fall, they don't fall down

In the mirror I fear the man I see
And wonder how his heart grew cold
I lie awake at night and I curse this apathy
Where's the fire in this soul?

Tears don't fall, they don't fall down
