Everything Has Changed

The Clarks

I thought we'd always be together We'd sit around and drink black coffee Talkin' 'bout the people we had been

We traveled through the childhood memories You showed me scars from the bars of monkey Smiling as your eyes reflected me

Now everything has changed Your street, your hair, your name

My world is rearranged 'Cause everything has, everything has changed

I woke up on a winter Wednesday
I read the note that you had left me
You found another friend to help you through

For years I tried to put you under
The memories made me run for cover
I'd see your face in everything I'd do

Well I was wrong You never felt the same

And now you've gone Away... away

The days of wine and roses tasted
I think of all the time I've wasted
Wanderin' through a past that could have been

I know that nothing lasts forever Best times are the ones remembered Thankful for the days that I have seen

Everything has changed.
