Jenny left from Idaho and made her home in Capitol Hill In a 300 square foot studio above a coffee shop near the Broadw ay Grill And every night she walks the block to trade in her time for ch eap thrills And everyone she meets is cool, but just out of reach and it ki She used to spend her nights by firelight and singing to the st ars Now she's ours Kevin left from Denver where the air is clear and people are ni And he traded it for sea level, for misty rain, what a bitter c ompromise For now he felt like he belonged to those who understood him But he sold his soul to fight right in and he watched his frien ds desert him He used to spend his nights by candlelight and drinking wine to vinyl Now he's ours It's a city of orphans Who had nowhere to go So they cashed in their dreams Headed northwest to the sea and they called it their home But most don't belong here We're all running away And we'll drain you dry of all semblance of life We don't give we just take, take, take But this city has no Bible There's no meaning you can use We're all desperately searching for truth We're a city of orphans Who had no place to go So we cashed in our dreams, filled our glasses with Beam and our bodies with smoke and we spend every weeknight trading pints at the Streamline and we talk about truth and we talk about love but we wake up t o lies, lies, lies it's a city of orphans where did our fathers go we stumble around in the bad part of town at the end of our rop but there are no answers on the tables of oak if God could just hear us we think that He's near, but He left long ago

we're a city of orphans what do we do to ourselves?

We take all the good and the heaven around us and turn it to he

We take all the good and the heaven around us and turn it to he ll
