

Journey Through the Past

The Claymore

Wandering through the valley of dreams
Voices in my head
Mirror of undying sorrow
Take my pain away
You promised salvation
But you disappointed me once more

The season of childhood is over
The man is beating his fear

The past is over, don't look back now
Together we live our dreams
Prepared for changes, taking chances
The innocent victim became a man

Wandering through the valley of tears
Yearning for revenge
Opening the gates to madness
Paralysed by fear
Surrounded by weakness
On the edge of sanity I wait

The season of childhood is over...

The past is over, don't look back now
Together we live our dreams
Prepared for changes, taking chances
The innocent victim became a man
The future is in my hands
A step into the light