

Waiting Game

The Cooper Temple Clause

From the littlest things
To the pain that it brings
Down to the things you miss the most
But you won't let yourself go
No you won't let yourself

'Cos time and time again
We feel the load a little more
If you can let yourself go
Then we won't hit that road.

'Cos I can see the sky
But it is yours to be seen
If you can be with someone else
If you can let yourself

But is this the time
Is this the place
And is this the end
Is all I can say
I promise I never meant to turn you away
Why did you trust me with your heart

So consider the things
From the pain that it brings
Down to the things that you miss the most
But if you let yourself go
Well then the next thing you know
Is I have seen this guy
He is looking at me
Yeah and he thinks I'm something else
So you can walk yourself home
Yeah you can go

Even though you waited
I know that you can begin on your own
You can begin on your own

But is this the time
Is this the place
And is this the end
Is all I can say
I promise I never meant to turn you away
Why did you trust me with your heart

I promise I never meant to turn you away
Why did you trust me with your heart
