Put the Sun Back

I caught you crying Trying to hide your tears away And all the while I never knew you felt this way I've loved you from the start How could we let this come apart?

We've got to put The sun back in our hearts

Through the alleyways The avenues and dreary days Your schoolyard eyes Hypnotizing every time When we kiss in the dark Emotion tearing us apart

We've got to put The sun back in our hearts

Down the cinder path And through the hedge Climbing up to the window ledge Throwing lockets to make a scene I can't explain, you know what I mean

I caught you crying Trying to hide your tears away But your crippled smile Will always give the game away Are we falling apart? Are we just walking in the park? The Coral
