No One Ever Tells You

The Crystals

When you're a little girl, the future looks so bright
No one ever tells you that it hurts to live
And things don't always have to turn out right

No one ever tells you 'bout love and how it can make you cry
No one ever tells you how your heart can break
When someone that you love tells you goodbye

And when the pain begins and the teardrops start to burn
No one ever tells you how it hurts to live
No one tells you you just live and learn