I need your time, I need your soul I need this temperature to go down low Got to realize my word's the truth I never thought that I could lose But when I get you on the phone My heart is so alone I need a life, I need a life I've watched you stumble I've seen you fall I've picked you up When you could only crawl Got to realize my word's the truth I never thought That I could lose But when I get you on the phone My heart is so alone I need a life, I need a life I need your time, I need your soul I need this temperature to go down low Got to realize my word's the truth I never thought that I could lose But when I get you on the phone My heart is so alone I need a life, I need a life I've watched you stumble I've seen you fall I've picked you up When you could only crawl Got to realize my word's the truth And I never thought that I could lose But when I get you on the phone My heart is so alone I need a life, I need a life But when I get you on the phone My heart is so alone I need a life, I need a life And when I get you on the phone My heart is so alone
