Electric Harmony

The Damnwells

The clock would ring just like a bell The green in her eyes dropped out and fell everywhere But I don't care I can see that she's made of something else entirely

Has she completely gone crazy She kissed me back and ran

She's my electric harmony and I'm her little paper tree She looks me up and down again She's looking out and I'm looking in She's my electric harmony

I've counted all the things I can see The spots and bumps And valleys that are keeping you in Then you begin to become a million things I tried to gather all of them but I couldn't sing

Has she completely gone crazy She kissed me back and ran

She's my electric harmony and I'm her little paper tree She looks me up and down again She's looking out and I'm looking in She's my electric harmony

Did I catch your name Was it something weird or something strange? Did I catch your name Did I catch your name Was it something strange

She's my electric harmony and I'm her little paper tree She looks me up and down again She's looking out and I'm looking in She's my electric harmony
