I Hear Your Name

The Dead Milkmen

Across the sea, across the sea That's where your hand was takin' me Goin' to places that I've never been I hear your name Someone's calling your name I better go now Someone's calling your name I thought I saw you in a department store You turned the corner and it wasn't you I thought I saw you walkin' on the sidewalk I blew my horn but you were someone else I hear your name Someone's calling your name I better go now Someone's calling your name Open a window, open a window Walk through the windows Walkin' through windows
