

Deny It All

The Dear Hunter

The hollow stick arrogance that binds
But good faith and fortune rarely reward our cries
While we wait carefully and see

Denied and borrowed, tonight
Deny
Deny it all
And it all will go away

Close your eyes, and deny it all
And it all will go away

Nursing stale history, and the apathy it brings
Too fascinated by the most material things
While we wait carefully and see

Denied and borrowed, tonight
Deny
Deny it all
And it all will go away

Close your eyes, and deny it all
And it all will go away

Never took you long to pray
Either way, I spend you like I know some better way
Force of habit.
Now it takes a while to pray

In a way, you spit me out, you changed my name

Never took you long to pray
Either way, I spend you like I know some better way
Force of habit.
Now it takes a while to pray

In a way, you spit me out, you changed my name

Deny, deny it all
And it all will go away
Close your eyes, and deny it all, and it all will go away
