

I Hate Your Love

The Dogma

As the thunder breaks the silent rain
My love for you is turning into hate

This is your last chance
To bring her soul back

I've walked for miles and miles
I've faced death for you

Don't you look at her
She will join the death

They've ripped you away from me
They've tries to hold your soul in hell

My baleful desire
Is to sink into the fire of haze

As the thunder breaks the silent rain
My love for you is turning into hate

This is your last chance
To bring her soul back

No pain, no gain
This is what they said

Don't you look at her
She will join the death

I'll never forget your cry
Your tears while you faded away

My baleful desire
Is to sink into the fire of haze

As the thunder breaks the silent rain
My love for you is turning into hate
'cause I can't live without your warm embrace
Euridice is still smiling like a fay

All the rhymes I wrote for you
They're withering as I do
Song are flying back like crows
To remind me what I was
This is why I hate your love
'cause it faded now you're gone
I've learned at my cost
My heart forever lost