

She Falls On the Grave

The Dogma

Lonely sister what's your secret?
Who's the demon of your heart?
Lonely sister what's your torment?
Why that sadness in your eyes?

Years go by
And the sky is turning to grey
Loneliness in this room with no ray of light
Can you feel or you're just believing a lie
It's so sad...I've got no more tears to shed

"Send me a sign lend me a dream
Give me a reason just to go on
I can't find it on my own"
Crying as she falls

On the grave
Like a lonely bride
She pays for all his crimes

Years go by
And the wind is blowing away
The dying leaves as the little dreams of your heart
Tell me now, when you lie alone in the night
Do you still remember all the sins and the screams

"Send me a sign lend me a dream
Give me a reason just to go on
I can't find it on my own"
Crying as she falls

On the grave
Like a lonely bride
She pays for all his crimes
On the grave
Heart between two fires
Guilty for your love

Everyday I kneel down and pray to atone all of my sins
Every night as an ancient rhyme he will come back to my mind
