

Travesty

The Duskfall

Seeing is believing and I've heard it all.
This fucked up generation will not see the dawn.
Almighty revelation, we have no idea.
They have tainted ever after with their stubborn beliefs.

There must be something more to life, just something more.
The right perspective and the human race is free.
There must be something more to life, just something more.
The right perspective and the human race is free.

I see you running for the prophet you think you need.
You might be running toward the reason of travesty.
Are you confident that you've grown the proper seed?
You better be running for the end of travesty.

Corroded foundations and polluted minds.
Devoted to the power and control of mankind.
Iconic obsessions still too blind to see.
They swallow every sentence with no will to be.

There must be something more to life, just something more.
The right perspective and the human race is free.
There must be something more to life, just something more.
The right perspective and the human race is free.

I see you running!

I see you running for the prophet you think you need.
You might be running toward the reason of travesty.
Are you confident that you've grown the proper seed?
You better be running for the end of travesty.

I see you running for the prophet you think you need.
You might be running toward the reason of travesty.
Are you confident that you've grown the proper seed?
You better be running for the end of travesty.