

Dark Room

The Faction

Sleep does not exist at all, my efforts are in vain
I strike a match to light a smoke, a whisper speaks my name
Moonlight penetrates the shade, there's an image up on the wall
What has entered by blackened world, a whisper makes its call
When you finally wake up, your memory won't recall What's about to happen in this dark room, you will arise and th at is all
Thinking that it was just a thought, a trick I played on me
I laugh aloud but to myself, I could have sworn that I just scr eamed my head off
Desperation gets me out, I gotta get some sleep
Food, the late show never help, you don't even bother counting sheep
Back into my dark room where my thoughts all reign supreme After my fourth cigarette that whisper's getting mean Dead weight lies beside me, so I turn the other way
"Your bed holds not security"
I heard the whisper say.