

Winter

The Fall

Entrances uncovered
Street signs you never saw
Entrances delivered
Courtesy winter

Entrances uncovered
Street signs you never saw
You've got Manny in the library
Working off a hangover 3.30
You get the spleen at 3.15
But it's 3.30

The mad kid walked the left side, towards me.
His mother was a cleaning lady. She had a large black dog.
And this day, on the road, the mad kid said to his mother
"Give me the lead, give me the lead, give me the lead!"

I just walked past the alcoholics dry-out unit and the can on the lawn, was littered with cans of barbican. That's an alcohol-free lager. Well, anyway, there was a feminist Austin maxi parked outside, with anti-nicotine anti-nuclear crap on the side.

Well anyway, I digress. The mad kid, two days before, had said to me, "Look boy, I'll take both of you on, I'll take both of you on." He had just got back from the backwards kids' party. He had a black duffle-coat, and a black party archbishop's hat with three bars for a skull-and-crossbones. And this day he looked like the victim of a pogrom.

Entrances uncovered
Street signs you never saw
Entrances delivered
Courtesy winter
Courtesy winter

Please take this medallion
Please wear this medallion
There's no sign of a cross here
Grab your coat and put it on
Courtesy winter
Courtesy winter
Two white birds cross the sky
Look like krakens at stork times
That little.....makes me tremble
Ah! Courtesy winter

The mad kid had 4.75 lights.
And the sign of genius is 4 lights.
Now most of us have 3 lights.
Except some slates who have 2 lights.
And there's one exception,
There's 1 light.
And that is the science law.

Courtesy winter
Courtesy winter

Got it all wrong for me
And it's a fallacy
and it does not stand up
It is the one science law
And is the statement of greats

Winter
Courtesy winter

Entrances uncovered
Street sighs you never saw
All entrances delivered
Courtesy winter